WIKIPEDIA

Mongolian bhasa

Mongolian bhasa ek bhasa hae.

Mongolian
Монгол Mongol, ᠮᠣᠩᠭᠣᠯ Mongɣol
Naam ke bole ke dhang	/mɔŋɢɔ̆ɮ xiɮ/
Spoken in	Mongolia, People's Republic of China
Region	All of Mongolia and Inner Mongolia; parts of Liaoning, Jilin, and Heilongjiang provinces in China
Total speakers	5.2 million[1]
Language family	Altaic (controversial) ▪ Mongolic ▪ Central Mongolic ▪ Mongolian
Writing system	Mongolian script, Mongolian Cyrillic alphabet
Official status
Official language in	Template:MGL Template:Country data PRC Inner Mongolia, People's Republic of China
Regulated by	Mongolia: State Language Council (Mongolia),[2] Inner Mongolia: Council for Language and Literature Work[3]
Language codes

References

1. Estimate from Svantesson et al. 2005: 141
2. "Törijn alban josny helnij tuhaj huul'" (http://www.edulaws.pmis.gov.mn/edulaws/web/index.php?modules=law&viewid=2&law_id=189). MongolianLaws.com. 2003-05-15. Retrieved 2009-03-27. The decisions of the council have to be ratified by the government.
3. "Mongγul kele bičig-ün aǰil-un ǰöblel". See Sečenbaγatur et al. 2005: 204.

ISO 639-1	mn
ISO 639-2	mon
ISO 639-3	mon – Macrolanguage individual codes: khk (http://www.sil.org/iso639-3/documentation.asp?id=khk) – Khalkha Mongolian mvf (http://www.sil.org/iso639-3/documentation.asp?id=mvf) – Peripheral Mongolian
Linguasphere	part of 44-BAA-b

Note: This page contains IPA phonetic symbols in Unicode.